

Ben Volk Licensed Washington State Insurance Producer | Retirement Nationwide, Inc.

Ben Volk brings a people-first approach to retirement planning that sets him apart in the financial services industry.

A proud Washington State University alumnus, Ben spent the early part of his career managing retail operations before discovering his passion for financial planning — a path he has now pursued for over 15 years. Today he owns Ben Volk Insurance, his independent brokerage, and partners with Jim Lusk at Retirement Nationwide, Inc. to serve Washington State public employees.

Ben specializes in what he calls defensive financial planning — helping teachers, firefighters, law enforcement officers, and state workers protect what they've spent their careers building. His focus is simple: make sure public employees retire with maximum income and complete peace of mind.

Outside of work, Ben is a devoted husband and father of two daughters — which is exactly why he takes the work of protecting families so seriously.
